"THEY CONQUER WHO BELIEVE THEY CAN"

Dedication

We, the Class of 1960, proudly dedicate our yearbook to a man who has served Somerset High School faithfully and earnestly since 1948. A man who not only has guided his students on the journey toward knowledge but has led them on the pathway of sportsmanship and truth. As he has led his baseball teams to championships, so, too, has he instilled in us the desire to be champions at all we undertake.

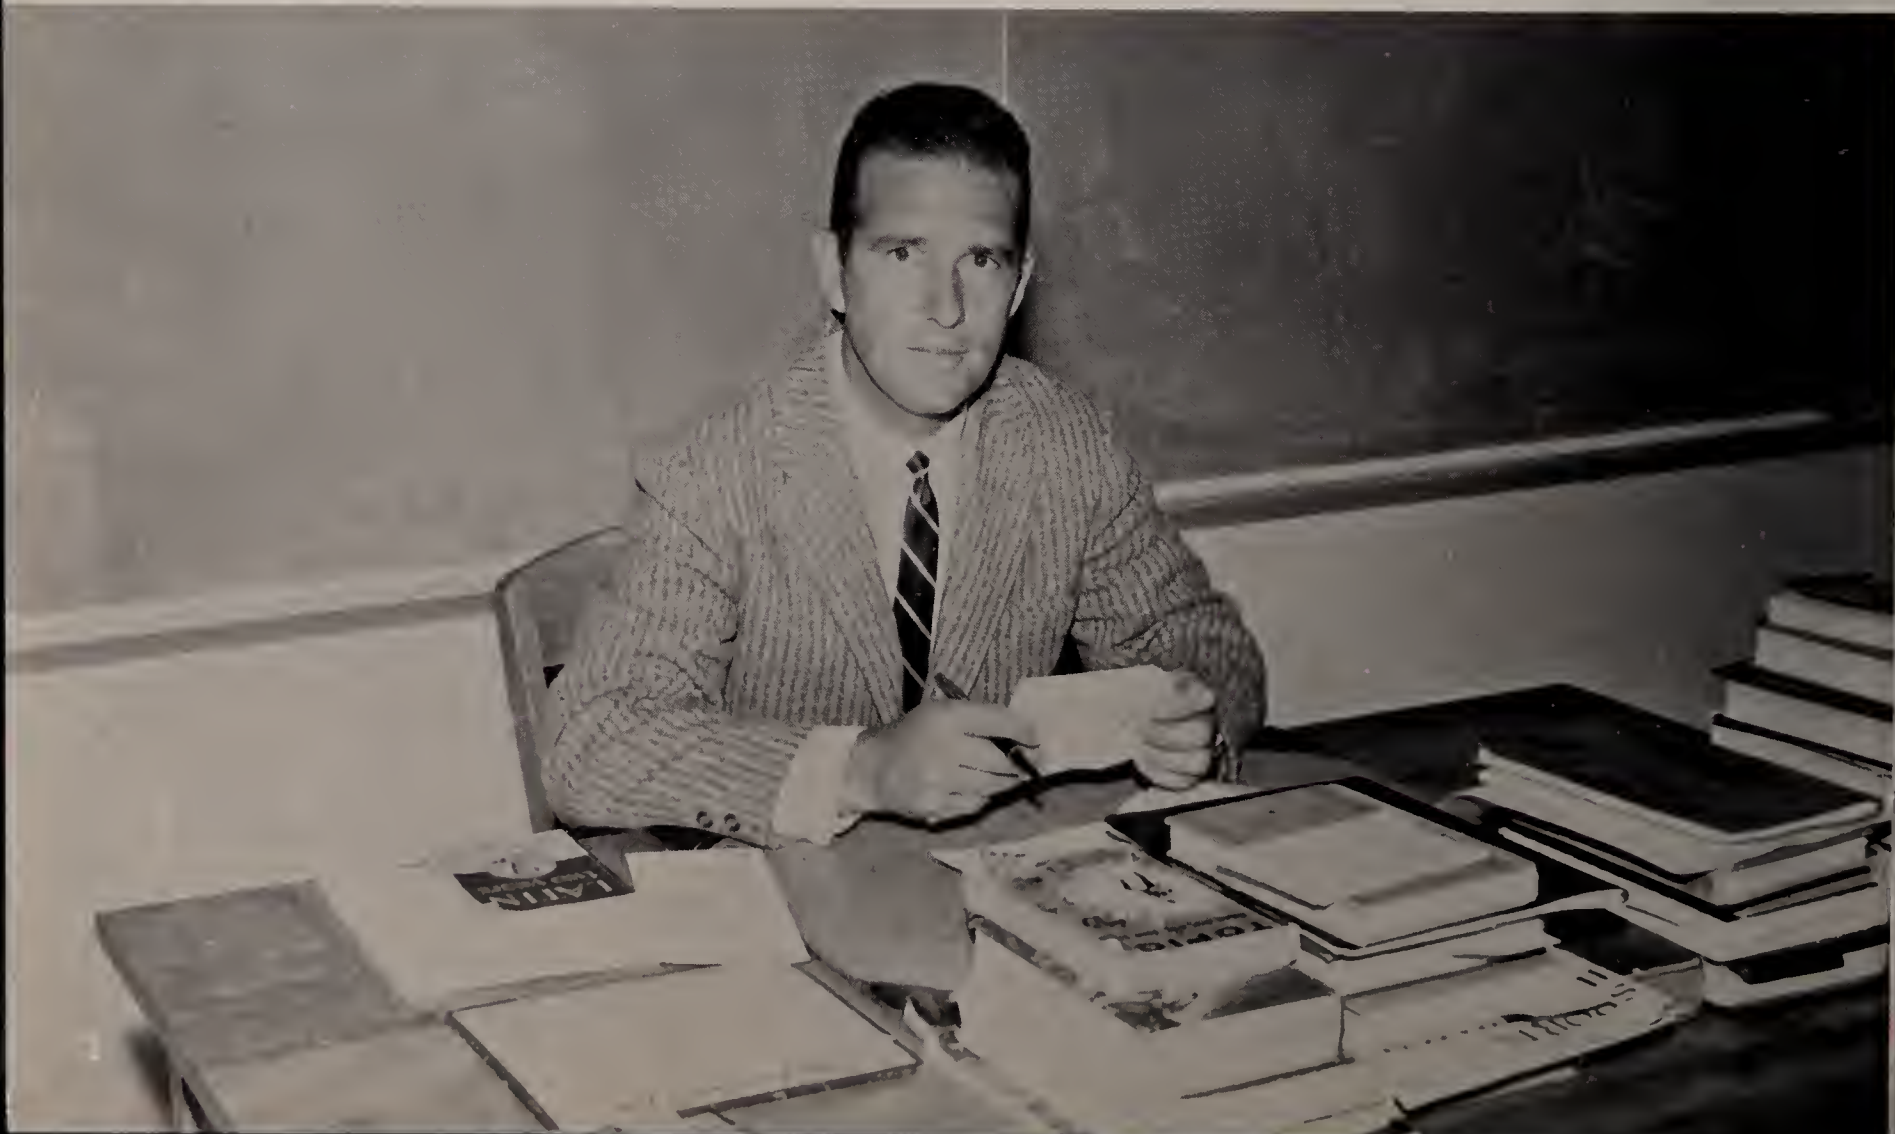

His personality and warmth are overshadowed only by his vast store of knowledge. He is regarded by all as one who would gladly lend a hand to anybody in need of help.

Friend, teacher, coach, advisor — he is the epitome of all.

Perhaps a slightly altered Latin phrase can best express our feelings; "Venis, vidis, vicis." You came, you saw, you conquered.

May you continue to do so in the years ahead for, without you, Somerset High School would not be the school which we know and love.

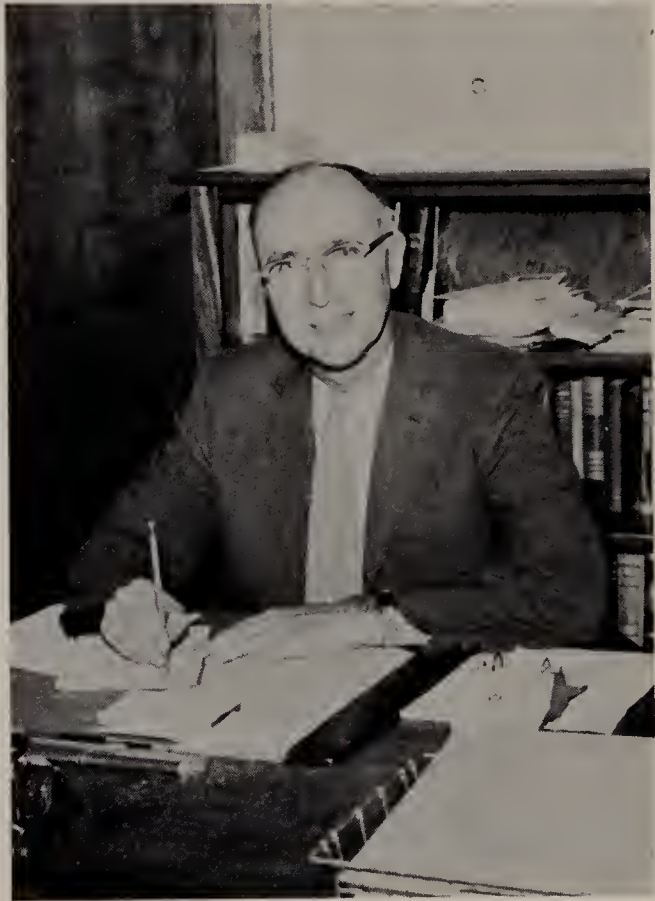

We shall never forget you, Mr. Kineavy, or the knowledge we have gained from you.

SUPERINTENDENT'S MESSAGE

The traditions and ideals of Somerset High School were the motivating forces in the preparation and completion of this excellent yearbook. Your editorial staff deserves commendation for making this pictorial record of your class and school activities. It is a significant contribution to the history of the school.

In much the same manner, you will recognize that your high school days will be of little value unless you have a personal ideal to follow. You will soon realize that happiness depends on the attainment of your goal and that it is very important to find your ideal and pursue it. If you maintain an even temper, an alert mind, a good disposition, and the spirit of service, you are well on your way to success.

Develop a sense of values and be willing to sacrifice in order to keep harmony. Learn to take the bitter with the sweet, have courage for your big problems and patience for the little ones. Meet every day with enthusiasm for the opportunities it brings and you will know the joy that comes from work well done. Hold fast to your religion against all worldly persuasion and remember that democracy is predicated on individual responsibility. May your search for the good, the true, and the beautiful find fulfillment, and, if the pressures of modern life discourage you, go outside in the evening and take a look at the stars.

PRINCIPAL'S MESSAGE

To Our Graduates of 1960—

Dear Friends:

I am writing this letter to tell you some things that previous graduates have found important. I am going to give you their comments as they wrote them, and I think you will enjoy them.

1. "Make your first impressions good ones."
2. "Your time schedule is important. Plan a time for self-improvement or study and stick to it."
3. "Your biggest problem is your new freedom from supervision. Don't use this freedom unwisely, it can spoil you."
4. "Establish regular and suitable living habits. Many people find this their hardest job."
5. "Don't make new friends too quickly. Stay away from wastrels. Life is full of fine people. Make them your friends."
6. "Learn how to handle money."
7. "The best part of you is your family and your reputation. Live up to them. You will be a stronger person for it."

I know that the future holds some wonderful experiences for you. May your actions add to the fine traditions and spirit which have long characterized Somerset High School. And if you ever feel inclined to do so, let us know how you are getting along. We'll be very glad to hear from you.

Sincerely yours,

Francis J. Kilgrew

Principal

Faculty

We, the class of 1960, humbly pay homage to you, our devoted teachers. Through your steadfast perseverance and admirable foresight, you have instilled in us the ideals which we have learned to cherish. You have directed our studies in the light of truth, justice, and the consideration of both ideas and persons. In our four years at Somerset, we have always had your guidance and understanding to depend on during our struggles to attain maturity. Self-reliance, self-respect, hard works, high ideals, and sportsmanship; these are the foundations upon which you have directed us to build our lives. Fine, sound principles; so typical of your leadership! As we prepare to leave behind our beloved Alma Mater, we shall always remember your unfaltering leadership, sound judgement, and wise counsel with appreciation and admiration. Thus do we gratefully salute the faculty of Somerset High.

"The best preparation for the future, is the present well seen to, and the last duty done." Thus have we approached the last stage of this, our guide. Four pages are opened before us, the record of our career at Somerset. What incidents, experiences, and accomplishments have we written upon their surfaces?

Today, we peruse their pages and find the name Somerset High as a shining symbol to the entering freshmen, in the year 1956. By electing William Taber, President; Sandra Sullivan, Vice President; Margaret Miranda, Secretary; and Carol Driscoll, Treasurer; we officially started our climb toward that plateau occupied by seniors only. Our first unified effort was the annual Christmas dance. Here, we learned the important principle of pulling together, which guided us through many more events. The June dance marked the close of the year, a year in which many friendships were formed and strengthened. The school buzzed with activity as we made our elaborate plans for summer fun. Deep within the recesses of our minds was the thought of returning in the fall as sophomores.

Was it only two years ago? We entered our second year full of anticipation and delight. We were, at last, full-fledged members of the senior high. The political results for the year were: William Frado, President; Rosanne Souza, Vice President; Margaret Miranda, Secretary; Alfred Morris, Treasurer; Carol Driscoll, Girl Councilor; and David Curt, Boy Councilor. Under their able leadership, our sophomore year was a great success. Our first Case Rally was preceded by weeks of excited preparations. Choosing "Sputnik" as our theme, we built a skit which carried this out in full detail. Diligence paid off. For the first time in seven years, the sophomores tied the seniors for first place. What a happy day that was! The next item on the agenda was the Christmas dance. The "Holiday Hop" was both a financial and social success. The time passed quickly; then it was June and time for another graduation.

Only a high school student can appreciate the difference between a sophomore and a junior. When the Class of 1958 closed its books, the epochs of our history really began. Under the political regime of President Richard Bernardo, Vice President Maxine Mendoza, Secretary Carol Driscoll, Treasurer Alfred Morris, Girl Councilor Patricia Cabral, and Boy Councilor Daniel Cabral, a year of utmost success and prosperity passed. Two from our ranks, Margaret Miranda and Lynda Goff were elected to the S.A.A. Council as Secretary and Vice President respectively. What a busy year we spent: the preparations for the tradition-packed Case Rally, the Turkey Day game, our overwhelming success, and our understandable pride in the junior stars. Sparked by our first year coach, Carlin Lynch, we defeated our arch-rivals by the resounding score of 32-0. With this victory, we annexed the first State Championship in the school's annals. In addition, we regained the treasured 49er's trophy. Among the many Somerset players named to the Small School's All-Star Team were our own Manuel Silvia, Elmer Gagne, Robert Tavares, and William Taber. Fullback Joseph DiGiammo was elected to the second team.

With the advent of the new year we initiated our preparations for the Junior-Senior Prom. Many discussions and debates were held and finally a beautiful theme was chosen. On June 12, 1959, a dream became reality. "Starlight in the South," a panorama of a misty Southern garden, was peopled by pretty girls in flowing gowns and handsome beaux in tuxedos. A royal send-off for graduating seniors! This memorable night was overshadowed only by graduation—the end of high school days but the beginning of a whole new adventure.

The fourth page — still wet with the pen we have just set aside — is now ours to survey. Our Senior year! At the very outset, the history making began when a new hand was chosen to guide our craft through this final year: Richard Bernardo, President; Carol Driscoll, Vice President; Alyce Mullen, Secretary; Alfred Morris, Treasurer; Patricia Cabral, Girl Councilor; and Daniel Cabral, Boy Councilor. Two more competent leaders were elected to head our important S.A.A. Council: William Tabor, in the service of President; and William Frado as Treasurer. After the elections, we planned "September Swing," our first dance. After a spirited season, we emerged as the first Tri-County Champions, once again defeating Case, 20-0. This game had been preceded by weeks of determined preparations for the Rally. "You Were There" was chosen as our theme. Through the combined efforts of all hands, we won first prize.

The senior class was honored by the selection of William Frado as a semi-finalist in the National Merit Scholarship Contest. Bill defeated Lorraine Hall and Lynda Goff, who were also contenders. Receiving letters of commendation were Margaret Miranda, Penelope Ashton, and William Taber as well as those mentioned above.

Exactly one year after receiving class rings, the Vantine pictures arrived, prodding our memory in the realization of how rapidly the year was passing. The flurry of college applications, senior orals, and final exams left us dizzy with excitement. The months flew by and then — it was June! The juniors gave their all to give us a most beautiful prom. How proud we were at the Senior Banquet when we recalled the memories of our last four years. Now, but one event remained, the actual receiving of the diploma. No words can express the feeling of a departing senior. A sense of exhilaration is combined with extreme sadness. Many could not refrain from tears. As we marched out of the hall, the strains of the Alma Mater rang deeply within our hearts as it shall continue to ring always.

The page is finished. And so, with an unsteady hand, we close this last chapter of our journal; a time forever remembered; yet never recaptured.

"Today we smile, tomorrow shed a tear,
At our memories of Somerset,
So cherished and so dear."

Class

We the class of 1960, being of sound mind and memory, do make, ordain, and publish this to be our last will and testament.

To the faculty: The class of 1960 leaves its deepest appreciation for their help, guidance, and undying efforts in teaching us to be better citizens.

To the Juniors: We leave the right to run the school.

To the Sophomores: We leave the right to be called upperclassmen.

To the Freshmen: We leave the right to go to High School dances without permission slips.

I, Lorraine Moniz, leave my summer vacations in Bermuda to future travelers.

I, Tony Santoro, leave my debating ability to future "Malcontents" in Mr. Nickerson's American History Class.

I, Vivian Rapoza, leave my height to all giant underclassmen.

I, Lorraine Hall, leave my unused rosin to would-be followers of George Liberace.

I, Donna Connell, leave my car to anyone who can start it.

I, Danny Riley leave my tuba to society.

I, Bonnie Borges, leave the tape recorder to Mr. Gayzagian.

I, Alice D'Arruda, leave my asthma to Mr. Mahoney.

I, Marion Shahdan, leave my sister.

I, Joan Soares, leave my ability to get on Mr. O'Brien's nerves to anyone who can outwit him.

I, Everett Almeida, leave my spelling ability to mis pellers.

I, Pat Cabral, leave my basketball ability to future women athletes.

I, Donald Hague, leave my car to the town dump.

I, Roger Ouellette, leave my job at Andrew's Suppermarket.

I, Judy Santos, leave my jewelry boxes to future collectors.

I, Richard Durfee, leave my mathematical ability to future mathematicians.

I, David Lima, leave my role as Caesar to anyone who wants it.

I, Alexandra Rego, leave my dancing ability to Arthur Murray.

I, Richard Cichon, leave the office to Mr. Kilgrew.

I, Rosanne Souza, leave in my convertible.

We, Dave Adams, Steve Senuick, Pat DeMarco, and Jimmy Longshaw, leave our future

Will

salaries to the cigarette companies.

I, Donald Fortier, leave with my shoe horn.

I, Richie Bernard, leave my dimples to any boy who wants to win a girl.

I, David Curt, leave my position as roving ambassador to anyone who wants to get out of class.

We, Veronica Botelho, Laura Dispirito, and Shirley Brown, leave together—as usual.

I, Carol Marsh, leave for Bryant College.

I, Nancy Wilding, leave my interview with Paul Anka to posterity.

I, Kathy Wawriw, leave my questions to inquisitive Juniors.

I, Paulette Fournier, leave with my famous last word — Uhuh!!!

I, Lynda Goff, leave my headaches to next year's yearbook editor.

We, the senior cheerleaders, leave the Case gymnasium in one piece.

We, Arlene Furtado and Pauline Tetrault, leave to join the Pen Pushers of America Club.

I, Bobby Remillard, hate to leave a certain Junior girl behind.

I, Bill Taber, leave the library in peace and quiet.

I, Sue Darling, leave my cherry pies to anyone who can eat them.

We, Gail Adams and Carol Keilty, leave to become big time Operators.

I, Pat Grandfield, leave my array of sweaters to any cold Junior.

I, Ken Chalk, leave the job as manager to anyone ambitious enough to keep it for four years.

I, Judy Latham, leave my practice golfballs to Martha Pierce.

I, Donna Simmons, would leave my naturally curly hair but I'd feel funny without it.

I, Ronnie House, leave my little black book to the highest bidder. (Line forms at the rear boys.)

I, Ronnie Lassonde, leave all my junk in my locker to the nearest trash can.

I, Paul Buffington, leave my nautical know-how to all aspiring sea dogs.

I, Al Morris, leave my unique running ability to anyone who needs to maneuver out of a difficult situation.

We, the class of 1960, have ascribed our names hereunto and declare this to be our last will and testament in this, the sixth month of the year of Our Lord, one thousand, nine hundred and sixty.

Class

Projecting ourselves about thirty years into the future, we notice a gleaming object approaching our illustrious city. Soaring through the air in one of the modern supersonic rocket powered airships, we find Al Morris, the present Secretary of the Treasury, who was anxiously anticipating his arrival at the Somerset Megapolis. As weather forecaster James Sullivan had predicted, the stratosphere had been tranquil, facilitating an early arrival. Dave Curt's "Car Rental Service" had Leo Parnet speedily service an auto at "Ed Mullen's Sunoco Station" and promptly placed it at Al's disposal. Having an extra fifteen minutes, Al stopped at "Ganem's Lunchroom" where he bumped into an old school buddy, Dick Bernardo. Dick, now a star reporter of the "Somerset Megapolis Spectator," invited Al to accompany him to the grand opening of the miniature city within a city, the Somerset Professional Center.

The center was one of the most impressive sights either had ever seen. They could not help but marvel at the creative genius of its designers, Ronald Mardula and Gordon Brown. Gerry Butler, president of "Information Please," greeted the visitors at the door and offered to personally guide them on their tour of the building.

The first floor was devoted to music. The celebrated wall murals, art products of Penny Ashton, represented a serene background for aspiring musicians. The sign on the door read "Riley's Conservatory." As they approached, they heard a loud omp-pa, omp-pa. Who else could it be but Paul Michael giving tuba lessons! In various offices in the conservatory were other artists: Donna Simmons and Pauline Tetrault, who gave piano and bass drum lessons; Robert Dumas, who could be heard blowing away on his hot trumpet while Pat Cabral and Vivian Rapose went through their dance routine. No music center could possibly be complete without a record store. No one could fill the bill but Ann-Marie Souza. When they were leaving, they met Richard Pierce, director of the conservatory, who presented them with tickets to the performance which Dan Riley was to conduct—the extravaganza of the year.

Next door Alex Martin's amateur hour was about to go on the air. The first contestants were Dave and Gail Adams who sang "The Spaceman Sonnet." The next attraction was to be the comedy team of Joan Soares and Susan Darling. Al and Dick, not having time to hear more, quietly tiptoed out the back door, noticing on the way Joe Souza, director of the program.

On the second floor they encountered quite a different atmosphere in the gigantic medical clinic. Lori Hall, head surgeon, was in emergency attended by nurses Mary Bargantine, Dotty Tompkins, Nancy Ferreirs, Jane Gibney, Carolyn Phelan and Rosanne Souza. Also on hand was the world renowned phychiatrist, Phil Tolin. How could a clinic be complete without a physical therapist? This was filled by Lynda Goff and assistants Howard Sonion and Ernie Loiselle.

Next on the agenda was a visit to the science lab; here they found the greatest marvel of all, the new precision electro-magnetohydrodynamic stabilizer, operated by physicist Bonny Borges. The engineering crew, working on a top secret atomic engine, consisted of Joe Leite, Mike Morgenstern, Richard Durfee, Pat DeMarco and Ed Ferreira.

Through all this activity Bill Frado, in charge of Foreign Relations, was engaged in an overseas telephone call diligently trying to spread good will. Helping him was his personal interpreter, Margie Miranda. Preparing to leave for France were Marion Shahdan and Arthur Camara, Attorneys at Law, who were to make several important purchases for the United States Government. Accompanying them were secretaries Lorraine Moniz, Mary Ann Nestor and Pauline Raposa. Laura Dispirito was in charge of ironing out any unexpected difficulties involved in this international transfer.

Before leaving for Europe, the girls stopped at Nat Medeiros's Beauty Shop, conveniently located across the hall. While waiting for Nat, Nancy Wilding gave them a manicure. Also on hand was assistant Max Mendoza. Marilyn Berry, while under the dryer, saw Al and Dick go by and said, "Say, who's that man with Dick? He looks familiar." Dave Velho, maintenance engineer, brought her up to date on Al's old classmate's success in government work. "Come and see for yourself," was his reply.

Now that the group had completed its survey of the new building, they took the elevator, operated by Manny Santos, to the main floor. While descending, Al asked, "What's new around town, Dick?"

"Come and see for yourself," was his reply.

Walking toward the seemingly ancient high school, they passed Kresge's neatly arranged windows and happened to spot manager John Leamy chatting with salesladies Kathy Wawriw, Paulette Fournier and Norma DiCessaro. Ronny House and Tony Pytel, owners of "Oysters Incorporated," were delivering a fresh batch of sea food to the lunch counter where Paul Buffington and Alice D'Arruda served the finest food in town.

Desiring to purchase a souvenir to remind him of his pleasant visit, Al entered the clothing store across the street. Much to his surprise, he saw Henry Simpson and Ronald Lassonde, two old classmates. It turned out that their good taste in clothes had been channeled into a profitable business. Within five minutes Al was again on his way to the high school.

It was merely a hop-skip and jump from the store to the school. Carol Driscoll's first grade class had just gone for their yearly dental checkup, nearly twenty minutes late. This was due to a breakdown in the public address system which was remedied in a jiffy by electricians Dave Lima and Donald Hague. Dr. Barry Lees with the assistance of his nurse, Marilyn Murphy, was diligently at work. In the gym, Alyce Mullen and Bill Taber were conducting their physical education classes. Nearby, Director of Athletics Kenny Chalk was discussing the upcoming football game with coaches Elmer Gagne and Joe DiGiammo.

While walking toward the office, our two friends passed Pat Phelan's class for retarded children, Danny Cabral's history class and Richard Cichon's Latin class. Dick and Al spoke briefly with Principal Edward Ciafardini; on the way out of the school they met Helen DeCambra, the guidance director.

Across the street from the school, they found the largest Chevrolet manufacturing plant in the United States, Bob Gell's business had been too competitive for the Detroit Chevrolet dealers. But for those people who resented these new-fangled machines, Donna Connell and Everett Almeida had an antique car shop with models dating as far back as 1960.

Al asked how the other members of his class had fared. No sooner were these words uttered than they approached the "Bin" operated by co-owners Manny Silvia and John Portlock. Business was booming as usual, since football practice had just ended.

After a few strings at the "Bin Bowlaway," Al glanced at his watch, realizing that his rocket was leaving in a half hour from the new airport situated in Fall River, a suburb of Somerset.

As Al flew over Somerset, he saw a large neon sign flashing "Santono & Kinney Shoes Amalgamated." This was too much! He asked stewardess Marlene Malone for a tranquilizer.

FOOTBALL — '59

A 20-0 trouncing of Case on Thanksgiving Day proved to thousands of onlookers that the 1959 squad was composed of the most courageous, determined, and spirited footballers ever to wear the Blue and White. Their 4-0-1 league record made them first champions of the Tri-County Football Conference. They retained possession of the "49'ers" Trophy for the second year.

These things were not accomplished without great hardship and sacrifice on the part of the team, Head Coach Carlin Lynch, Coaches Kinney, Simpson, and Sullivan. For the Raiders transformed the gloom of an injury jinx into the light of a glorious season. Quarterback Steve Winslow was lost for the season due to a summer operation. Halfback Joe Phillips' broken ankle sidelined him early. In the third game of the season, brilliant field general, speed merchant, and Tri-Captain Bill Taber broke his ankle. He had been termed by many as one of the finest all-around football players ever to play for Somerset. End John Fitzsimmons suffered a facial injury and was lost for the final game of the season. Numerous injuries sidelined key men at different times throughout the season.

In spite of this, the Raiders played their hearts out in every game and earned the distinction of being "Champs."

DEFENSE: Somerset's superb defense saved the day on many occasions. Opponents were thwarted countless times by stalwart linemen, smart linebackers and alert secondary. Key fixtures in the defense were Capt. Elmer Gagne, Capt. Bob Tavares, Manny Silvia, John Fitzsimmons, Stan Kozikowski, Ernie Botelho, Ronnie House, Russ Rapoza, Ron Lassonde, John Portlock, Alan Hahn, Jerry Morris, Paul Joly, Rich Durfee, and Barry Lees.

OFFENSE: The jinx affected the offense more than the defense. Only in the final game did it blossom. Brilliant Manny Silvia and hustling John Fitzsimmons were at the ends. Capt. Elmer Gagne, perhaps the best tackle ever to play for S.H.S., and hard charging Pete McGowan were the tackles. Capt. Bob Tavares, one of the speediest and hard-hitting guards in the area, and burly Stan Marsden were at the guards. Courageous Ronnie House was the pivotman of this line. Jimmy Rebello did an excellent job of quarterbacking. Bruising fullback Joe DiGiammo was the workhorse of the backfield. Big Barry Lees, the breakaway threat, ran with power from his halfback slot. Rich Durfee hustled 120% on every play whether grinding out yardage, blocking, or pass receiving, and it paid off.

Other key men in the Raiders' attack were Rich Bernardo, Steve Senuick, and Dave Cordeiro.

As time passes, memories of this heart-warming season will linger in the minds of all who were connected with Somerset football, 1959.

Basketball

The 1959-1960 basketball season was one of the most successful and heartwarming campaigns ever completed by a S.H.S. quintet. At the start of the season, totally inexperienced, the team floundered along and was constantly in trouble. However, the boys worked hard, put together a potent attack, and upset champion Case to finish with a 10-4 record, good for second place in the Narry Basketball League.

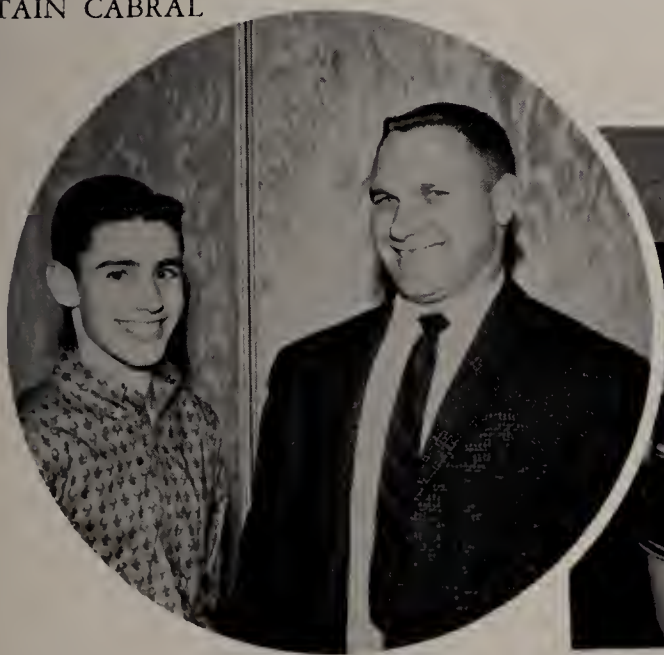

Much of the credit for the success is due to the diligent work of Coach Sherm Kinney and his assistant, Norm Nickerson.

The Blue and White was paced by "Butch" Morris, a fine pivotman and top rebounder; Jack Tinsley and Milt Foulds, accurate shooters; Ken Arruda, fine shooting cornerman; Milt Cordeiro, defensive genius, and Bob Durfee, deft ball handler.

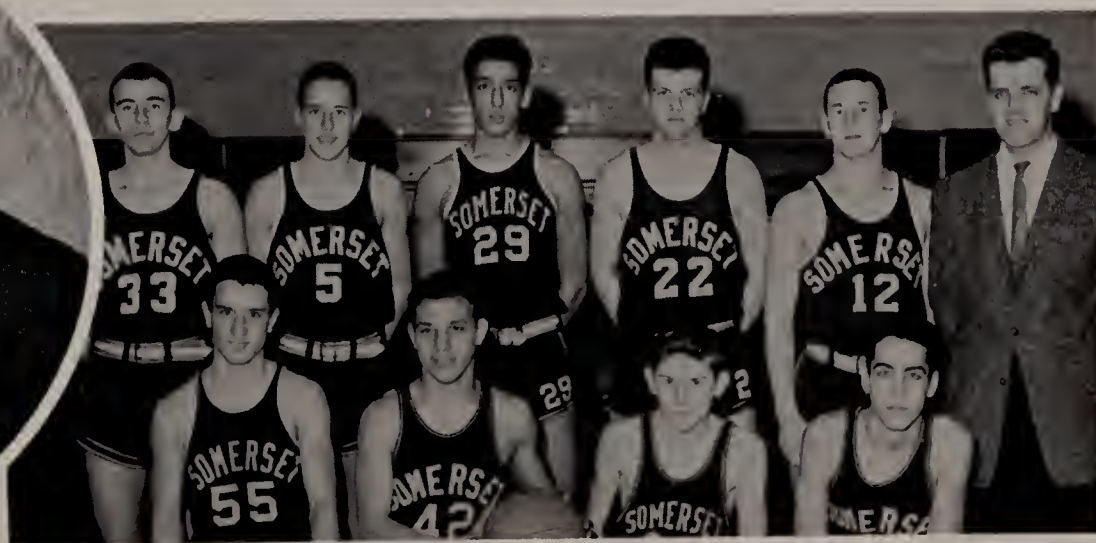

Captain Dan Cabral, backcourt wizard, was the silent leader of the squad.

Excellent reserve strength was provided by Pete McGowan, Bob Tavares, John Pereira, and Phil Tolin.

Baseball

A second place Narry League finish and a tourney berth were highlights of last year's baseball campaign. Termed by many a "green" team, composed mostly of underclassmen, the Kineavymen surprised by finishing in the running.

Led by Co-captains Barry Lees and Milt Cordeiro, the Blue and White have their work cut out for them. Lees is an outfielder and power hitter, while Cordeiro is a scrappy infielder. Diminutive Dan Cabral plays a slick game around second. Elmer Gagne and Ron House add power to the fielding corps. The team's only weakness will be pitching, with sophomores Dick Motta and senior Rich Cichon, the only returnees. Veteran Steve Winslow leads an array of juniors and sophomores who will break into the lineup.

With strategist Jack Kineavy at the helm, it should be an interesting campaign.

Track

The 1959 track squad turned in a performance which was adequate in spots, brilliant on occasions, and sometimes disappointing. Working against the odds of bigger schools and the rebirth of track interest in the area, their record may be termed "hard luck." The highlight of the season was the Narry Meet victory for the eighth consecutive year.

This year, under the capable influence of Coach Robert Simpson, the squad should fare very well. With Captain Al "Butch" Morris and Bill Taber as a nucleus, the Raiders have several events sewed up—the 440, 220, 880, shotput and high jump. Rich Durfee should be a top sprinter, and Steve Senuick a stellar miler. Dick Burbank, a sprinter, and Jerry Morris, a versatile runner, sprinter, and high-jumper, will lend a touch of junior aid. Also dependable are Alex Martin, Mike Morgenstern, Phil Tolin, Rich Bernardo, and several promising sophomores.

On their shoulders lie the hopes of the 1960 season.

Girls' Basketball

This year, the girls' basketball squad, under the guidance of Coach Corcoran, enjoyed a highly successful season in the Bristol County Girls' Basketball League. Their 8-4 record was an admirable one; the four losses were close, hard-fought encounters. The Raiderettes sparkled at Midseason with a 43-39 decision over Case's previously undefeated sextet.

The Blue and White was paced by co-captains Pat Cabral and Carol Driscoll in their successes. Spark was added by Senior guards Ruth Chace and Lydia Goff and Senior forward Nat Medeiros and Junior forward Andrea Gateriewictz. The squad combined a stout defense and an alert offense in their victories. The team's reserve strength, a strong point all season, was given by guards Judy Cambra, Pat Phelan and Margaret Hitchen and forwards Mary Lou Cabral and Linda Harris.

Softball

Last spring, Coach Corcoran initiated a new sport for girls—softball. Immediately a large number of girls were interested and the endeavor was a complete success. In the balmy spring air, the girls were seen competing with other schools of the vicinity. All indications show that the infant sport will grow to major proportions.
